16 to 30 years growing energy; moulding, grooming and exposure required

31 to 45 years matured ones; potential leaders; exposure must

46 to 55 years balanced ones; learning should be on; take more responsible

56 to 70 years experienced to be tapped; take more responsible; health issues

71 years & above experienced to be tapped; health issues; setting sun

56 % of the B/G Bhakats who are in the age group of 56 years and above are the experienced lot and they have carried forward the tradition. Their knowledge and expertise should be documented and the challenges facing the tradition should be understood from them. The health of this group should be taken care of specially those above 70 years for they are the setting sun of this tradition.

33 % of the B/G Bhakats in the age group of 31 to 45 years are the most potential ones to spread the tradition across the state. Of course they have to be equipped with proper training and exposure before they spread out to serve the society. Most in this group, though not Burah Bhakat form the sense of age and expertise, yet they are responsible guardians having bhakats under them. They can definitely shoulder more responsibilities.

7% of the B/G Bhakats in the age group of 16 to 30 years should be moulded and groomed by the experienced B/G Bhakats from 'A'. They should be trained to motivate and make them perfect to carry forward this tradition. Exposure of this group is a must.

We had asked what was the source of livelihood for the B/G Bhakats

34 % of them said agriculture was their major source of livelihood and 22% gave Sattriya as their next important source.

It is true that most of these Sattras have their lands where they grow their rice and sel-sufficient in the same. Though today they do not work in the fields themselves and give it on 'adhi' system. The next source they said was Sattriya. Here also they mean their life in the sattras and somehow the resources for their upkeep flows in, though in today's time it has become difficult to sustain the same.

25 odd livelihood areas were reported by the Bhakats and the majority of them was reported by the Bhakats from Sri Sri Auniati Sattri. 32% of the Bhakats from this Sattri said 'Sahar' was their major source. The next source was Bisoni making (10%).
